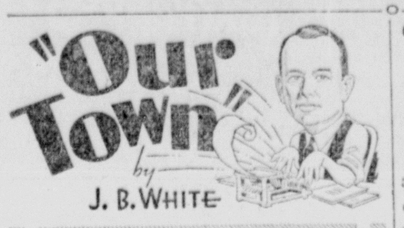
FARM CONTRACTS ARE VALIDATED



Cameron's VITAL 5-Point Program

Street Lighting System.

City owned Swimming Park and Bath House.

Adaquate School Gymnasium.

Athletic Stadium.

To correctly measure our aptitude for civic duty and prove that we are entitled to classification as sensible citizens who go after things for our town that are within our reach, let us give some serious thought to this five point program. Put it on the MUST list and forget about factories and the host of major prizes that the civic minded in larger cities go after and get. After all it is the combination of advantages that make a town liveable and enhance the value of a community.

If you think these things are worthy of your attention, speak to your neighbor. In turn offer a suggestion to your government and those in authority. Above this, let those who represent you in public places know that they have your confidence, that in achieving successes for Our Town we rely upon the good judgment of our officials. No individual will be able to make Cameron conscious. It will require the united effort of all. Those who think, cannot achieve except they enlist the aid of those whose efforts are so necessary to concerted action.

Contrary to the common belief the government has spent little in acquiring improvements for the Wilson-Ledbetter Park. That site was improved by government funds and by private subscription and initiative. No city is wise that neglects to provide park sites for 50 or 100 years hence. Without disclosing what a number of interested citizens have found, a desirable site is now available with abundance of clean water and a large acreage enclosure for a swimming park and bath house. This Cameron needs above everything right now because of its entertainment value.

Cameron's annual default to other towns in the privilege of public entertainments is costing us heavily. It is because we have no adaquate place to stage public entertainments. It is not mere vision that sees crowds of 15 and 20 thousand in the Friendly City on July 4th. It is quite within reach of us and we should not overlook the opportunity that knocks upon every door in Cameron.

Combine a number of small, though essential accommodations, and our town will reap many rewards both in public esteem and in economic results. Neglect these essentials and the day is not far distant when the high roads will lead the population away. The pride we hold for our community should make this thing possible without further comment. If you think well of this suggestion write this column and express your ideas.

In time we will discuss these needs at length and in detail. They are all vital. They are within reach of OUR TOWN if we but weld our efforts and support the movements, some of them already launched, to achieve them.

Our faith in freedom is based on the belief that every human soul has its own soverign rights—rights that are not merely granted by society but as an essential of human character. Since society is nothing apart from the men and women of which it is fashioned, it can never ignore the right of freedom without courting its own distruction. Yet this freedom is not the freedom for men to do as they please. Even in primitive society this freedom is denied, and the complex demands of civilization deny it in a thousand ways. When we agree to live together for the sake of work or happiness, they set limits to their behavior and agree to live beneath a code and law.

Yet the right of freedom remains. It is a right not to natural but to spiritual freedom. Its most vital doctrine is that men have the right to think as they please. Man as a member of society has duties rather than rights. As an individual his rights are supreme. The problem of society is to appoint to each man his duties while scrupulously protecting his rights. For in the right of man to think as he pleases lies the hope for endurance and perfection of society.

"Steals Same Cow Twice" Gets 8 Years in Texas Prison

Seth Dees under charges in Milam and Falls Counties for stealing cattle was sentenced to 8 years in prison in district court here Tuesday by Judge Graham Gillis after he had entered a plea of guilty.

Dees was placed in jail but had not accepted sentence up to Wednesday morning. It was developed in testimony that Dees had stolen the same cow twice, once from his brother in law and once from a local dairy.

He was sentenced to 4 years in Falls county. Four of the eight year term given here will run concurrent with the Marlin term. Dees has been in jail several months. He was tried in Cameron two years ago for cattle stealing.

The Comets will be playing with their backs to the wall and they will "shoot the works" Sunday in order to stay in the race. A defeat will mean their elimination.

1935 RENTALS WILL BE PAID SAYS AGENT

George Banzhaf, county agent, said many farmers have raised the question whether the recent action of a Massachusetts court had stopped the payment of rental checks.

Milam county farmers are asked to continue to sign their 1935 contracts and get their allotment certificates. The program will be carried out as begun, said the agent.

The United States Senate has validated the contracts to insure completion of the program this year. All rental checks will be paid in full. Next year the program may be changed radically or in the opinion of many be abolished. Observers see a return to unrestricted production with a lower price. If the government, they say, had taken steps to wipe out the surplus and turned the farmers loose to produce a virgin crop, cotton would have been around 30c or more and labor would have been accommodated. As it is reduction of acreage and plowing up of cotton destroyed labor.

With war pending, indications are good that the present crop, despite government pegging, may be taken at a low figure by the cotton trade and held in store for mounting prices in the event of war.

Practically all the stores of both grain and cotton now on hand were bought at starvation prices. Flour now being purchased at $1.80 for 48 pounds, was made from two bit wheat, they contend.

The farm program has been beneficial to Milam county farmers, it is pointed out. Artificial stimulation has raised price levels but the method has played havoc with labor and small planters who have for years operated on cuts amounting to more than the present government restriction.

Bottle Thrown in Little River May 19th Found on North Beach Galveston Island

A bottle thrown in Little River by Gertrude Boedeker on May 19th containing a request that the finder communicate with her, has been tossed ashore on the north beach of Galveston Island.

On July 1st four boys enjoying the beach found the bottle and wrote Miss Boedeker. One of the young men lives in New York while three live in Galveston.

The bottle containing her address was tossed into the stream at the trestle on the Southern Pacific tracks southeast of the city. Approximately 40 days later it was believed to have been thrown up out of river debris on the sands of the shore.

To reach Galveston Island the bottle had to ride the current down Little River to it smouth on the Bud Smith farm near Gause, thence down the Brazos to Freeport where the Father of Texas Waters empties into the Gulf of Mexico.

Recent floods took much inland water on rampaging crests to the sea. Galveston Island was littered with debris brought into the bay by streams.

Lee and Tommy Howell Have Become Song Writers

Lee and Tommie Howell, musicians and sons of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Howell of Cameron, are making rapid headway both as musicians and composers. They have become song writers and their latest hit is "Chain Letters" being sought by publishers.

Mr. Howell, the father, enjoyed the day at Pleasant Hill Sunday. He is an old master at violin, played the music of the seventies on the Yegua and met old friends Sunday at Pleasant Hill. Mr. Howell reads the Herald and has just extended his reading date for another year.

His day and generation of men built the forts, conquered the frontiers and sometimes had to lay the bad men away in their boots to make the country habitable. In doing this they managed to be happy and play the fiddle, bringing down and preserving for this age many of the celebrated musical compositions of their day. They have transmitted to their sons the sturdy qualities of the pioneer.

Tommy and Lee Howell, two musical brothers with the Jimmie Kline band have written a tune called "Chain Letters" and have it with the publishers. Tommy plays trumpet and Lee trombone. Either one may get the original idea for a tune but both work on it before the thing is completed. Sometimes one writes the lyrics, the other the music.

First chance they get they are going to bust over to New York or Los Angeles, the two publishing centers, and spot a few tunes with the publishers. They have turned in a tune called: "There's Romance in Your Eyes," "Silver Shadows," "You're Gone," "Until the End of Time," and sixteen others. They now have 35 partially written songs, most of which are complete music but lack words.

Mrs. Charlie Nabours is attending A. & M.

While none of the other teachers have reported their location for the second semester of summer school, it is believed that a number of others are taking advantage of the opportunity of summer work.

Frank Slavik an old subscriber in the Marak section and getting his mail on Route 3 out of Cameron is among the large number who have given their renewal for another year. Mr. Slavik owns some good land in that section, is a world war veteran and takes an active part in the disabled veterans association. The publishers are glad to welcome Mr. Slavik as a Herald reader for another year.

Benefits of Agricultural Station Experiments are Listed for Milam County

By E. D. PARNELL

Experimental results with poultry, dairy, swine, field and horticultural crops at the Texas A. & M. main experiment station were shown and explained to more than three hundred farmers, farm women, Vocational Agriculture teachers, county agents and other visitors early in July and the data given is due to be of much value to the farmers of Texas. The results of the experiments are briefly given below for the benefit of Milam county farmers. Anyone desiring further information concerning the field day or the experiments carried on at the College may secure it from the writer of this article.

Poultry Experiments

Wheat gray shorts is a feed valuable to growing chicks as it contains a vitimin that makes for faster feathering, greater gains, and less of the leg weakness called "slipped tendon." The slipped tendon trouble occurs often when too much bone meal is used, when too small amounts of oyster shell are used and when chicks are confined closely in battery brooders. . . .. Skim milk is an excellent source of protein for laying hens and no meat scrap is needed for a small farm flock of 100 hens or less if plenty of milk is available, the station officials report. . . . Laying hens need a minimum of 3 pounds of oyster shell a year to produce strong shelled eggs that will hatch well, it has been found. This shell may be ground fine and mixed with the mash or be left before the hens at all times in the coarse form. . . . In raising turkeys in brooders some difficulty is encountered in teaching the young poults to eat. This may be overcome by placing ten week old chicks in each pen of 100 poults. These should be brooder chicks to avoid introduction of diseases to the poults. . . .

Dairy Cattle Experiments

Meal and hulls, the common ration for dairy cows, is good if fed with other feeds but poor if fed alone. the station has found. Cows will die if fed on meal and hulls alone due to lack of vitamin A. The use of silage or fresh green pasture will prevent the deficiency disease. It is recommended that cottonseed meal be mixed with home grown grains to make a balanced ration for cows in milk. In addition, one per cent each of ground limestone and salt should be added to the ration. . . . Most grain should be ground for dairy ground oats being worth 107 pounds whole oats and 100 pounds ground milo or hegari being worth 105 pounds of the unground grain.

Swine Experiments

It does not pay to grind hegari, kaffir or milo grain for feeder pigs, results of five feeding projects disclose. Pigs getting ground grain gained 1.71 pounds a day while those getting whole grain gained 1.74 pounds a day. The pigs fed whole grain required 339 pounds grain and cows, the tests disclose, 100 pounds 37 pounds meat scrap for 100 pounds gain while those fed ground grain needed 333 pounds grain and 36 pounds meat scrap to make 100 pounds gain. It will be noted that some saving resulted but enough to justify the cost of grinding. Older hogs seem to make greater gains on ground feed as compared to the unground ration. Pigs hand fed whole kaffir twice daily do not chew the grain so thoroughly as those that were self fed. Pigs fed soaked milo heads made n ofaster or more economical gains than those fed dry grain, when both lots were hand fed. Soaking whole threshed milo before feeding did not increase the grains, but actually increased the feed required to make 100 pounds of grain. Pigs fed threshed milo were ready for the market 10 days earlier than pigs fed on milo heads. . . . Pigs fed whole kaffir in the dirt in place of in a trough, gained only 85 per cent as fast as the trough fed pigs and required 65 pounds more feed per 100 pounds gain than did the trough fed pigs. Whole grain and skim milk is a 100 per cent farmers ration for hogs as nothing needs to be bought to make it complete. The station tests show that 100 pounds pork can be produced with 275 pounds of whole milo or hegari and 590 pounds of milk. The grain was fed in a trough and the milk fed at the rate of one gallon per day per pig. . . . An acre of Sudan pasture saved 369 pounds grain and 690 pounds of tankage over those lots that received no pasture, the tests disclose. The pigs on pasture were in better health, gained faster and brought a slightly higher market price than those fed in dry lots. Oat pasture was found to be worth $14 per acre for pigs being fattened for the market. These pigs were likewise healthier, made faster gains and much cheaper gains than those kept on rations in dry lots.

Field Crop Experiments

When Commercial fertilizer is used on cotton it should be placed 1 1-2 inches to each side and two inches below the level of the seed for best results. Placements of fertilizer directly under the seed delayed germination and reduced the final stand. It was found that the use of 4-12-4 commercial fertilizer at the rate of 800 pounds per acre gave best results on the Lufkin fine sandy loam at the College. However, these results could not be used as a guide in Milam county, since soil and rainfall is so different here. Addition of phosphoric acid slightly increased the yields of corn but potash and nitrogen did not show any increases in the corn yields. . . . Rotation of crops, by the use of a regular 4 year rotation of cotton, cowpeas, corn and oats gave a 37 per cent increase in the average yield of corn, the rotated corn averaging 21.3 bushels as compared to an average of 15.5 bushels for the non-rotated corn. Cotton and oats showed slight increases as a result of rotation. . . . Surcropper corn with a 9 year average of 29.6 bushel per acre is the leading corn variety at the College with Horton, Oklahoma White Wonder, Strawberry, Ferguson Yellow Dent and Chisholm following in order. Spacing corn from 18 to 24 inches apart will give the highest average yield over a period of years, tests disclose, but a 36 inch spacing will come nearer insuring some corn every year. . . . The station has developed 2 new sweet corn varieties, Honey June and Surcropper sugar, which are superior to nothern sweet corns in yields and are much more resistant to insect damage than ordinary sweet corn. Either of these corns will do well in Milam county and farmers who are interested may secure a sample for planting next year. For those who want seed in quantities, it may be secured from the station officials through purchase. . . . Startex, New Boykin, Watson and Sunshine are the leading cotton varieties at the College, in the order named. Startex, a variety developed at the College, averaged 239 pounds lint per acre, gave a 39 per cent turnout, pulled a 31-32 inch staple, and 67 boles of the cotton make a pound. . . . In an effort to compare corn with the grain sorghums on yields per acre, a test was started in 1928 in which Surcropper corn and Darco, the two highest yielders in each division. The corn averaged 29.7 bushel per acre for seven years, while the Darso gave an acre yield of 37.6 bushel. In addition to grain, the Darso gave an average 5.26 tons of roughage per acre, whereas the corn gave less than a third of a ton of tops per acre. . . . Macspan with a 32 bushel average, has proved to be the best peanut variety. Osceola is the best velvet bean, Brabham and Groit are the best cowpea varieties and Loredo is the best of the Soybeans.

Students Make Pecans Grow On Hickory Trees In County

How to produce pecans on first year buds and grafts has been demonstrated this year by Tom Hairston in their practice work done at home this year as a part of their supervised practice work in Vocational Agriculture. These boys have budded and grafted Burkett pecans on native hickories and have been successful in getting a large per cent of them to grow. A few of the grafts and buds actually set pecans on the new growth but they are not expected to mature. The patch bud and the bark graft were the methods used in propagating the pecans on the hickory stocks. Talmadge McGregor, a third year student of Vocational Agriculture, did some grafting of persimmons this year for his practice work at home and one of these grafts formed a cluster of Japanese persimmons. Practically every student of Vocational Agriculture is doing some budding and grafting as a part of his supervised practice work, E. D. Parnell, teacher reports.

FEDERAL AID SOUGHT FOR LATERAL ROADS

Milam county has retained the services of Homer Kimble to map a program for goverment aid to rural roads in the county, it was announced by Judge Jeff T. Kemp Saturday.

Mr. Kimble has been assisting Bell county to get government aid for lateral roads.

Judge Kemp said it would be necessary for the county to co-operate in this program by furnishing trucks and doing other necessary things. Hope was expressed that topping might be had for some of the lateral roads.

The recent action of the state highway commission did not affect any designations already made in Milam county. The cancellations affect those designations made where no maintenance is now had.

Rasberry Is Named Mayor of Thorndale

The election started off draggy; neither of the men who were being considered wanted the job, but friends of Mr. Rasberry turned out better later in the day. The unofficial vote was E. L. Rasberry, 78; O. F. Weise, 39; G. S. Summerlin, 1 and John Davis 1. There were no nominees and no names printed on the ballots.

Professional robbers who have flown the country are believed to have been involved in the safe blowing at Gause Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock.

Sheriff Kennedy and deputies were working to solve the case but only slight headway has been made.

In the daring robbery three men overpowered Adrian McCown, deputy constable, tied his hands and feet and took his money and gun. OLYMPIC BASEBALL PLANS.

METHOD OF SELECTION.

NEW PLAN SUGGESTED.

DEANS WORSE, YET BETTER.

JAPAN PLAYERS FLOP.

HAGEN LEADS CUP SQUAD.

IN SHORT——.

BASEBALL NOTES.

A new field of competition may be opened up in the Olympics meets with baseball as a regular competitive sport between the nations. This is the hope, at least, of the newly organized American Olympic baseball committee, and plans are being made to provide a nine from the United States to compete with the squads of Japan in Berlin next year. The national game has become almost another prominent international sport and it is quite probable that other countries including Canada, Mexico and South Africa will support the suggestion for Olympic ball games, which by the way, was introduced through the Japanese basebball magnate and not through the United States.

At first it was planned to draft a baseball team for next year from the athletes taking part in track and field events, but this has practically been abandoned because of the chance of injury to valuable men who may be depended upon heaily for other events. The most recent plan is to have a national tournament each year except the Olympic year in Miami, with teams that star in various sectional tournaments being sent to the Miami diamond. These plans have been drawn up largely through suggestions of Max Carey, Leslie Mann, and Buck Herzog, old-time ball players who are member sof the committee.

In our opinion, in so far as the plan is to send the best teams, a better method would be the following. Each year sectional tourneys would be held of teams from local communities (all participants are to be amateurs) and with authorized committees in attendance. These committees would then select the stars of the rounds of play and advance an All-Star aggregation to the regional affair. In turn, each regional tourney would send its all-star group to the final scraps in Miami, where another All-Star team would be selected. This All-Star team would automatically qualify as a competitive aggregation for the next year, and in the meantime the same procedure of the year before would prevail for newcomers and those who were non-successful the preceeding year, yet who have improved through the benefit of the tourney play of the year before. Then on the final year before the Olympics were to be held, the All-Star team selected for that year at Miami would become the American contender. The squad would include some twenty-five men to allow for injuries and other handicaps abroad where substitutes would be unavailable.

At any rate, regardless of what method is used, the plan is a good one, and it would give the United States a chance to widen interest in its national game. It would also give the young amateur stars of the country excellent chance of proving their worth as players, therefore bringing their names before the scouts of the big leagues, who are always out for talent.

Records released last week show the Dean brothers, famous brother pitching act of 1934, to be hurling better ball this year regardless of their not so impressive won and lost percentages. Up to the same period a year ago the Deans had won 24 and lost 8, while this year they had won 21 and lost 13. Dizzy's earned run average last year was 4.32 as compared to 3.33 for the same period this year. Paul had lowered from 5.04 to 4.77. Other departments all follow pretty much in the same comparison, which means that the hitting and fielding power of the rest of the Cards is not this year what it was last, and yet the club was in a better position in the pennant race this year than last. All of which makes it seem improbable that the Red Birds will be able to close with the same rush as last season, particularly with the Giants boasting a lead of some half dozen games.

Very likely no more attempts will be made to take a group of major league players into Japan or some foreign place for exhibitions during the winter seasons. A glance at the records of the players who made the trip abroad last winter shows only four of the group playing ball up to their lifetime marks. Charley Gehringer, Jimmy Fox, Rabbit Warstler, and Clint Brown comprise the quartet. The remainder of the squad outside of Bing Miller, who is doing well only as a pinch hitter, are giving performances far below their records for the 1934 season. These include Gehrig, McNair, Ruth, Averill, Frank Hayes, Gomez, Cascarella, Whitehill and Berg. And did you know that, according to Whitehill, Jimmie Foxx was the most valuable member of the squad's hurling corps?

For the fifth time since the matches were informally inaugurated in 1926, Walter Hagen will be captain of the American Ryder Cup golf team. Hagen well deserves the honor, as he has been right among the leaders in all important pro and open tourneys for the past two years. The American pro team, which will be endeavoring to recapture the cup from Great Britain, includes Paul Runyan, given the No. 2 position as the P. G. A. title-holder; Olin Dutra and Sam Parks, Nos. 3 and 4, given their positions as open winners in 1934 and 1935 respectively, and Ky Laffoon, Johnny Revolta, Henry Pickard, Horton Smith, Gene Sarazen and Craig Wood, all selected from their low medal scores in various tourneys of late.

Odds and Ends—Frank Carideo former Notre Dame All-American quarterback, will be an assistant coach to Major Irvine Sasse at Mississippi State College this fall. . . . Strangely enough, Carideo's point after touchdown for the Irish defeated Sasse's Army eleven by 7 to 6 when the two institutions met in the mud in 1930, Rockne's last year as Notre Dame mentor. . . . Erna Kompa, New York, holds the new women's American swimming mark for the 220-yard back stroke. . . . She recently negotiated the distance in 2:58.9. . . . Charley Paddock, former holder of many of the world's sprint records, believes that Eulace Peacock, and not Ralph Metcalfe or Jesse Owens will be America's bet for the dashes in the Berlin Olympics next year. . . . He feels that Metcalfe's leg is too bad and that Owens is well nigh burned out from competing in so many events in the quick succession of meets. . . . Charley ought to know. . . . Among the leaders in the vote of the fans in selecting a college all-star football eleven to meet Chicago Bears August 29, are Don Hutson, Cotton Warburton, Frank Larsen, Phil Bengston, Bill Began, Charlie Marr, George Shotwell, Duane, Purvis, Dixie Howell and Izzy Weinsaok.

From the Bleachers—The tigers at 4-5, are still the favorites in the American League to cop the pennant. . . . The biggest rise in odds from April to July was on the Browns, who went from 30-1 ao 1,000-1. . . . The biggest drop was on the Chisox, from 100-1 to 5-1. Walter Johnson says that when the Sox crack, however, the snap will be heard round the world. . . . Which is quite possible, although at this writing the Pale Hose continued to annoy the leaders. . . . The Giants, second at 8-5 in April, are now 1-3 and out. . . . The Braves shot from 20-1 to 200-1 when the failure of Ruth became apparent. . . . Odds courtesy Jack Doyle, Broadway Betting Commissioner. . . . The waiver price in the American loop has been raised from $4,000 to $7,500. . . . Bill Lee, Cubs, in a recent game had two times at bat, two hits, two put outs, two assists, two runs batted, and a two base hit. . . . Tom Zachery continues to win ball games several years after being declared through. . . . The Reds have the streakiest team in the majors. . . Good one time, bad the next. . . Leon Petitt used to pitch for the Bloomer Girls. . . . Ossie Orwoll, former member of the A's has joined the House of David squad. . . The Whitehill-Tavis feud is quite a reflection on the Earl of Whitehill's temperment. . . . After winning a long streak of ball games, Tommy Bridges suddenly blew up, and has been batted all over the place. . . . Three times in his career Bridges has pitched one-hit games. . . . Val Picnich, veteran catcher, was the battery mate of no less than 3 not-hit hurlers while the latter were in action.

Now if some gatherer of statistics will tell us how many big jobs are held by former cheer leaders.

They drove it for 3 weeks—compared it with their regular brands on (1) mileage (2) starting (3) pick-up (4) power (5) all-around performance.

Verdict—Gulf!

At the end of the trial, 7 out of 10 voted for Gulf on one or more of the five counts—many on all five.

Why? Because Gulf is 5 good gasolines in one. Controlled refining gives it not merely 2 or 3 ideal gas qualities—but all five.

Summer Sale Ahead

Summer apparel, though obviously appropriate for many more weeks of wear, is making way in shops and stores for the styles of the coming fall season.

The energies of the merchants are therefore directed in disposing of remaining stocks of summer gowns, sports apparel and summer accessories.

In other departments seasonable sales of household furnishings are being inaugurated.

It is the time of price concessions and wise economies for those who take advantage of the buying opportunities offered.

There is a fresh meaning to that useful word "baragin"—a meaning that you will appreciate when you have tested its power to increase the value of our dollars.

For the first news of shopping opportunities in Cameron's shops and stores, read the advertising in the Herald and let it guide you in making wise and economical expenditures now.

Easy Farming.

A few years ago a New England author wrote very interestingly of the adventure of himself and his wife in deserting city life and going back to the farm. The article attracted the attention of many and as a result Philip Curtis received many letters from city dwellers, seeking to gain from making a similar change. However, their ideas were mainly inconsistent with the possibilities of the exchanged residence.

"All they wanted me to do," Curtis now writes, "was to find them an abandoned farm with a Colonial house which could be bought for practically nothing yet would be equipped with steam heat, electric lights and running water, which would be isolated yet near cultural neighbors, where the taxes would be almost negligible but where the roads would be free from mud or snow. Most of them 'loved to rough it,' and hoped that I could suggest some back-country occupation which would assure them about three hundred dollars a month."

Writing Editorials.

As we begin to write the editorials to fill our accustomed space for the next issue of the Herald we do not as a rule seek subjects upon which to express our opinion. We worry little over what our readers think, granting them the same right of opinions that we hold.

In truth, in writing our articles we realize that, in the handling of any subject, we write the view of the minority, and that, in most cases, the vast majority of our readers will not agree, entirely, with our conclusions. What then is the purpose of editorials?

Interesting if possible; honest always, and the truth, if attainable, is the idea, not the stirring up of a vigorous assent from a partisan mob. Take any subject in the world, express your views positively one way or the other, and you will receive much enthusiastic comment. Both sides are glad to get a partisan advocate; each is interested in triumph rather than truth. Discuss the subject carefully, dispassionately, and with an eye on the points on both sides, and you will probably please the small element in a community that thinks.

The small thinking element is the one that a community needs to cultivate, and it is the one to which editorials in the Herald is directed.

Nothing Adverse to Say

Twenty-eight years ago a Russian by the name of William Feldman came to this country and settled at Charleston, S. C. A few months ago he made a return trip to his native land. Upon his return he discussed with a reporter of the News and Courrier some of his impressions.

"Wherever I went, people told me they were just like in America; they were free," Mr. Feldman said. "I told them that over here, I could take a box and put it on a street corner and get up and shout that I did not like the president or the mayor or the governor, and that if I did that over there I would be dead in the morning. I told them that if I said anything good about the people I would be dead in the morning, too.

"They said this to me: 'That is right, but you see there is nothing to say against the people in office and there is nothing good to say about people out of office. So why should we want to get up on a box and say those things that were not true?'"

That is typical of suppressed peoples dominated by dictatorships, which keep them in ignorance of comparisons which might be odious.

Scrap Metal.

Some months ago shipping circles took note of the fact that Japan was buying considerable scrap metal in this country for shipment to the Orient. The explanation that Japan lacking ore deposits, required the metal to manufacture shrapnel shells and other missiles of death.

Significantly, Italy has recently entered the American market to purchase scrap metal. Incidentally Italy has a scarcity of ore deposits, and some imperialistic designs in Africa.

This Concerns You, Too.

One of the really important matters, about which the average citizen of Cameron thinks little, is good health. Those of us who enjoy this blessing take it for granted, and forget about the diseasee we have missed largely through luck rather than good sense.

The basis of good health is proper diet. That at least, is true of the individual after birth, when nature has already given him a body endowed with certain inheritance, good or bad. When the average person awakens to the fact that health is largely a matter of proper care the body has served so well that few of us are inclined to believe we have a weakness until too late.

Regular physical examinations to detect organic weakness and some thought as to what and how much to eat seem simple prices to pay for good health and long life. Nevertheless, there are any number of people who fail to put up this small fee.

The Coming Boom.

There is talk again of the coming American boom. Improved business prospects are responsible for this expectation. The huge supply of money in this country affords the basis for a credit expansion which would rapidly produce conditions similar to the 1929 era.

Administrative and congressional leaders are giving this possibility some thought and that is the reason why legislative enactments are being pushed in order to control the speculative exurberance which may come. The securities Act and the Banking Act of 1933 are both calculated to help control any such movement but other checks are considered necessary.

Supporters of the Utilities Bill recall that utility holding company shares led the skyrocketing which preceded the crash in 1929. The new banking bill, called sometimes the Eccles Bill, provides for definite restraint against unwise expansion of credit. Under it banks could be required to keep a larger reserve and provisions are contained to centralize the financial operations of our banking structure.

Considering human beings as thoughtful and sensible objects one would think that the experience since 1929 would have taught a dear lesson. Speculation and inflation would not seem so attractive to those who suffered during the last five years if they understood the causes sufficiently. Strict government control is necessary in many phases of business and banking because without it the general good is subject to harm. The ignorance of many about fiscal matters and the selfish greed which actuates others who do understand and know can cause disaster for all.

This Socialist Business.

The Herald has no idea that the people of Milam county favor any socialist scheme of government, but they are too intelligent to be misled by opponents of legislation who think to confuse them by referring to it as "socialistic."

An example comes to mind in the attacks upon the securities act by no less a person than Lewis W. Douglas, who was director of the Federal budget until he got tired of the Roosevelt policies and resigned.

It may be "socialistic," as he suggests, but everyone knows that the purpose of the measure was to prevent repetition of the robbery and stealing that went on in certain financial circles. The idea was to protect the public against unscrupulous and crooked brokers.

If this is socialism, then we join with the Baltimore Evening sun in saying that "perhaps there is more to this socialism business than meets the eye."

Recognition.

Ordinary human beings recognize their acquaintances and friends, as a rule, by mental comparisons of the faces seen. The particular face is the index to the particular personality it represents. There are other ways, however, to recognize individuals.

The blind Senator from Minnesota, Thomas B. Schall, depends upon the hands and voices. "The feel of a man's hand bespeaks the character of his face," says the Senator, "and the voice is an instrument of the soul: It doesn't lie." And almost everyone can recognize the identity of a friend when they see the absent one's handwriting on an envelope.

Learning To Swim.

There are probably a million people in the United States learning to swim. As usual, the process will involve casualties but mankind insists upon being able to travel through water.

A baby, beginning to walk, uses hands and feet for the purpose. Later it decides that the legs alone will furnish locomotion and the hands are reserved for more important uses. This decision means that later in life when the desire to swim takes hold, the child will be compelled to force the hands and arms to perform as legs again.

In connection with swimming it might be well to call attention to the fact that casualties among beginners are not as frequent as those affecting persons who have learned to swim. The new swimmer is prone to overestimate ability and to take risks that are unwarranted and unnecessary. Drowning often results in consequence.

Recall of Congressmen.

The question whether a state which has enacted the provision allowing for the recall of various elected officials can apply this remedy to rid themselves of a United States Senator or representative attracted sufficient attention in congressional circles that Senator George, Democrat of Georgia, recently issued an opinion denying the applicability of the recall to congressmen.

Notwithstanding the fact that Senator George is an able lawyer the probability is that this question will never be finally decided until an endeaver has been undertaken to put it into practice, in which case the determination of legal principles will probably be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

Predict Earthquakes.

From the city of New York, where much astonishing news originates, comes the story of Reuben Greenspan who has recently surprised the scientists by correctly predicting earthquakes in various sections of the world. He made good on several occasions, notably the Quetta quake in India, which killed 56,000 persons.

Mr. Greenspan is a sailor, but has had a scientific education. His theory seems to be simple and plausible—that the gravitational pull of the moon and the planets cause a pick up in the earth's crust wherever there is a fault. A check up he says, indicates that the system is 85 per cent accurate.

From the New York Times we find that Mr. Greenspan predicts a serious earthquake on July 29th and 30th in the area near the recent Quetta disaster. It will be interesting for the readers of the Herald to watch this prediction and see if it is verified. It is worth noting that "there will be no earthquakes in Montana, Utah and California, the earthquake areas of the United States up to July 30th."

Can U. S. Negroes Help?

The reaction of the Negroes of the United States to Mussolini's invasion of Ethiopia will be interesting to watch. Already, from several states, comes news of mass meetings, with Negroes passing resolutions and making vague pledges of support.

Whether American Negroes will be able to make effective their sympathy for the Ethiopian brother remains to be seen. One doubts if much assistance can be extended without running athwart neutrality.

Moreover, we suspect that American Negroes who go to Ethiopia for service under Emperor Haile Sellassie will not find life in the African kingdom what they think it might be.

A Chance for Youth.

The great progress made in preventive medicine in the last few decades points the way to those of us in other lines. Most of us who live in Milam county like to read about the wonderful inventions of scientists, who save millions of dollars annually by discovering some way to prevent something from happening.

Farm boys and girls who read this article will be interested to learn that there are estimated to be 6,000,000 species of insects, and more are being discovered every year. Many of them, like the boll weevil, the corn borer, the coddling moth, the potato beetle, the clothes moth and others, levy enormous toll upon the profits of superior man, who, it seems, is unable with all his intelligence to combat their ravages.

There is hardly a home in this county but where some of these insects have levied a tax on the housemoney. Besides, there are the mice and rats which are to be found nearly everywhere, and whose activities cost us huge sums each year. Any school child in this section has plenty of opportunity to study the habits of these pests and, possibly, to find out some way to destroy them. Besides rendering great service to the human race by such a discovery the enhancement of the family purse would be immense.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

Sunday School Lesson

by HENRY-RADCLIFFE

A RELIGIOUS REFORMER

International Sunday School Lesson for August 4, 1935

GOLDEN TEXT: "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." Matthew 4:10.

(Lesson Text: 2 Kings 23: 1-5; 21:23.

Our lesson today concerns the heroic effort made by King Josiah to reform the people of Judah. This ruler came to the throne when he was a child, eight years old, during a period of international calm as the power of Assyria decreased and the strength of Chaldea grew. For thirty-one years he ruled.

Josiah was the son of Amon, a very wicked ruler, who was assasinated after a brief reign of two years. Befort him was Mannessah, likewise a ruler who was wicked and whose influence was bad, notwithstanding a period of reform which came too late. However, it seems Josiah's early training must have been under strong religious influence, for in his boyhood the tendency of his life originated. His mother, Jeddidah, the prophet, Zeppaniah, and, possibly, Jeremiah are supposed to have been the powerful influences which caused him later in life not to turn aside.

When the young king was 16 years of age he instituted the first great reform effort, directed to eradicate idolatry, which had been growing since the time of Solomon. Altars and pillars to Baal, temples and groves for Astarte, and even the sacrifice of children to Molech were not unknown then. By forceful measures Josiah attempted to entirely eliminate these heathen places.

Attention was next directed to the shameful condition of the once beautiful Temple, which had been neglected for generations and was sadly in need of repair. Josiah realized that this was the house of Jehovah and should be in keeping with its purpose. Money was collected and turned over to the High Priest Hilkiah so that a large number of workers were restoring the ancient edifice to a presentable and attractive condition. While engaged in this work a wonderful discovery was made.

Hidden somewhere amid the temple ruins a manuscript roll containing the "Book of Law" was found. No one knows exactly what books of the Pentateuch this included, probably only a good part of Deuteronomy. Some think it was a newly written record of the traditional law. At any rate, the new volume was regarded as a great religious discovery and it was soon carried to Shaphan, the Schibe, and the King himself. The finding of this ancient document was nothing unusual as there have been many cases where long lost documents have been found, such as some of the writings of Aristotle, Dante, Milton and other well-known authors.

When this document was read to the King it had instantaneous effect. As he contrasted the expectation of Jehovah for his people to live righteously with the impure and even conditions which existed among his own people, Josiah was instantly moved personally and determined to remedy the situation if he could. Huldah, the prophetess, frankly declared that the approaching punishment by Jehovah could not be averted, but because of Josiah's personal fidelity and worship, the impending ruin would not occur in his lifetime.

The people were summoned to a general assembly, to which the newly found law was read, and the King took the initiatie in having his people anew their covenant to Jehovah. A renewed purging of heathen ideas and worship followed. The Passover was observed at Jerusalem, all being summoned to that central point and every detail was carried out as prescribed by law. Josiah was industrious in his efforts to bring his people back to a true and genuine obedience to Jehovah.

Josiah's life comes down to us as a record of strenuous exertion to avert the approaching calamity to Judah, and notwithstanding the failure of his efforts his life stands out as one of the great examples of history. His death came as a result of internationtl complications, for when Pharaoh Necho sought to march his Egyptian army through Judah to attack Assyria, Josiah declined the acquiesce but gave battle with his own army at Megiddo. Defeat followed and the King received a mortal wound.

Louisa's Letter

SHOULD SHE MARRY?—A HUSBAND OBJECTS.

Dear Louisa:

Why is it that my husband who is a very considerate man, most of the time, seems to delight in criticising me before others. He holds up my shortcomings to the amusement of the dinner table if we have guests. When I remonstrate with him, afterwards, he just laughs and says that I must be a sport and learn to take a little teasing.

J. C. B.

Answer:—

I have never understood why so many husbands and wives who seem to be very fond of their mates, delight to hold them up to the ridicule of others. They tell things about them that they wouldn't tell about their worst enemies. Wives relate happenings about their husbands which picture them as grouchy, ill tempered nincompoops. Husbands depict their wives as inconsistent morons. And they expect each other to find these stories humorous.

I think, perhaps the best cure for this mania is to give the "teaser" a dose of his own medicine. If John starts telling all the humiliating things that have happened to you, join in with a hearty laugh and come back with something like this: "O, let me tell you one of the funniest things that ever happened to John. It was just after he had his teeth removed and he wasn't quite accustomed to his store bought ones. Well he was trying to make a great impression on Mr. S., and being extremely gallant to Mrs. S., when all of a sudden he sneezed and all of the new crockery landed spang into Mrs. S.'s lap. And was John embarassed?

A few remarks such as the above, which I admit is extremely crude and in bad taste, is a sure cure for the man or woman who delights to dangle their other half on a verbal pitchfork for the amusement of the crowd.

Yours,
LOUISA.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'doless.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

A HUNGRY MAN IS BLIND TO BEAUTY

The publisher of the Champion has always believed he was patriotic but he admits that he might profitably use a little more sentiment, if he had that substance or thing—whatever it is in him. All of which is said as a shock-absorber for the more emotional of our readers when we say that we cannot join in the chorus sufficiently to get the kick out of it others seem to get, in singing the praise of the big effort being made to beautify the rural homes. From the contacts the writer has made among the agricultural population of Texas, he believes that the imperative need of Texas people is a feeling of economic security, and whatever money we have to expend or efforts we are capable of making looking to the welfare of the people in the rural communities should be directed at all possible speed toward relieving their minds of the anxiety induced by that feeling of insecurity which saps their energy and dulls their interest in beautiful scenery around the roadside and the door steps. We should begin at the beginning. Beautiful homes will follow as night follows day, if the occupants of the homes feel secure and contented, and have the means to provide the necessities of life and a little more. The hungry man cares not a whit whether the visitors to the Centennial like the appearance of the homes in Texas. Feed him and then talk about beautifying his home and he will do his part.—Thorndale Champion.

The Comets failed to bring home the bacon from Rosebud Sunday. They lost both games of the double header by a score of 3 to 1 and 5 to 3. It was a gruesome battle from start to finish.

In the first game Gillum and Buffington were the batteries for Rosebud and Jackson and Thompson for Cameron.

Rosebud scored one run in the first inning on a double by story. Cameron threatened to score in the third inning when Smith singled over second base, Jackson sacrificed. Williams walked and Smith was in scoring position when the next two men were unsuccessful in advancing the runners by hitting to second baseman and being thrown out at first. In the fourth inning Reese sailed one over deep left field wall for a home run with no one on bases for Rosebud. In the fifth inning Cameron made their own score when Wiley and Smith were walked by Gillum. Jackson next up hit into a play forcing Smith out on second but putting Wiley o nthird. Wiley scored on a single by Williams. In the eighth inning Reese duplicated his home run with another one over the fence and no one on bases. This brought Rosebud up to three runs and leaving Cameron one as the first game ended.

Gillum struck out 3 men, walked 3 and allowed Cameron 4 hits.

Jackson struck out 5 men, walked 4, allowed Rosebud 7 hits.

In the second game Burrage, Reimer and Rice were the Rosebud batteries and Etzel and Jenness for Cameron.

Rosebud scored 1 run in the first inning on account of an error by the Cameron first baseman. Cameron made two runs in the second inning when Burrage blew up. He was relieved by Dad Reimer who stopped the rally by walking one man and striking out 1 that inning. Cameron scored another run in the fourth when Wiley gets hit by pitched ball and got his base. Then Smith singled, Williams got base on balls and Jackson sacrificed scoring Wiley. Rosebud scored one in the fourth when Reese gets on by a walk, Reimer singled putting on third and he scored on the throw in from a high fly to left field by McCoy making the score 3 to 2 for Cameron. Rosebud started a rally in the sixth inning by getting three hits in a row and scoring three men putting them in the lead. Cameron was unable to come from behind in the seventh and last inning.

AAA SUITS MULTIPLY.

ELECTRIFICATION.

RELIEF PROGRAMS.

With hundreds of suits in the courts the Agriculturel Adjustment Act is under a fire that will not end until the United States Supreme Court has spoken clearly one way or another.

Last week a Federal Circuit Court of Appeals held unconstitutional not only the processing taxes but the entire effort to control production, raise prices and recompense farmers was a feild in which Congress has no control. If this is to be the judgment of the higher court it might be well for farmers to be looking ahead and considering the next step.

Suits by many companies to prevent collection of the processing taxes, used to secure the money to pay the farmers, multiply rapidly and have caused a substantial reduction in collections. Moreover, many of them seek to recover taxes already paid on the ground that the tax is illegal and some $90,000,000 is involved. To meet this, the administration is seeking passage of a bill to throw out all pending recovery suits and prevent the filing of others. This it can do, for the United States cannot be sued without the consent of Congress.

So far as we have been able to observe, the Rural Electrification Administration is making slow progress in its program of electrification. Naturally, a new agency requires some time to get going and it is expected that many projects will be under way before long.

The attention of farmers everywhere is called to this opportunity to secure electricity. There are, perhaps, many regions where it is not feasible; in other places, the plan will work. It is the business of all those who live on the farms to understand the program and get in on it if possible.

"From time immemorial," says Senator E. D. Smith, chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, "the farmer has been exploited because he was disorganized."

There is a bit of truth in the remark, but it is not the whole truth. The farmer is partly to blame for the treatment he has been given. He has much to learn in the way of making his voice powerful in government.

The lack of organization is due to many factors but it has continued, in part at least, because farmers have refused to intelligently study their own problems and logically follow the path necessary to cure their evils.

The new snag hit the contemplated sub-marginal land purchase program when Comptroller General McCarl ruled that the $4,800,000,000 work relief fund does not permit such purchases where there is no substantial work relief on the land after it is purchased. Western Congressmen are working to secure direct authorization for the use of funds, which would be used to buy 11,390,455 acres affecting 14,135 families.

Rural rehabilitation and resettlement designed to improve the economic status of 350,000 farm families, has been allocated $91,000,000 and the money will be used to make loans to families for farm purposes, to secure land and to set up agricultural industrial communities.

Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell in charge of the program, has divided the nation into eleven districts and will try to spend the sum within six months. The regions were set up in accordance with relief needs and particular attention will be given to submarginal farms and to areas where changing economic conditions have left many farmers stranded.

FEDERAL FUNDS FOR SCHOOL HERE ASKED

E. A. Perrin, Secretary of the School Board, releases the information that the Cameron Independent School District has filed three applications with the PWA, each requesting a forty per cent grant.

The first one which went out about three weeks ago requested a grant for the construction of a physical education and vocational building.

This building would house the physical education program, the home economics department and the music department. This building is very badly needed, not only to house the activities it is intended to house, but also to give additional room for class room space in the Yoe High school which will be made available when the Home Economics and Music Departments are moved from the Yoe High School to the new building.

The second application is for a grant permitting the completion of the paint job which was started two years ago, but which was discontinued when the CWA working conditions were changed.

The third application is for a grant to construct steel bleachers at the athletic field with a seating capacity of 1064.

These grants, if made, will take care of forty-five per cent of the construction cost. The remaining 55 per cent needed for the construction of the Physical Education and Vocational Building will be made available by the City Council, fifty per cent of which will be refunded to the City Council by the Cameron School Board. The fifty-five per cent for the paint job will be furnished by the School Board, and the fifty-five per cent for the bleachers will be made available by the Athletic Council.

There is a fourth project pending with the Works Progress Administration which calls for sixty-five per cent of the construction cost. If this application is granted, four additional rooms will be added to the negro school and the installation of modern flush toilet system.

Teachers Salaries Hiked When Board Gets $1500 More

At its meeting Thursday evening, July 11, the School Board of the Cameron Independent School District took advantage of the increased State apportionment to grant salary increases to all of the teachers except the administrative officers and Mr. Parnell.

The increased apportionment was ni the amount of one dollar per capita and netted the school an additional $1500.00. Fourteen of this fifteen hundred dollars was distributed between the various teachers with those who received the lowest salaries receiving the greatest increase. Seven teachers and the three janitors received a sixty dollar per annum increase, five teachers a $54.00 increase, and the others varying amounts ranging from the above mentioned figures to as low as $16 increase per annum.

DINNER BRIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Robinson were hosts for a dinner bridge party Tuesday evening. The hostess chose for decorations a pink, green and lavender color scheme, featuring pink roses, ferns and lavender astors that adorned the reception rooms.

Following the dinner, games were enjoyed for a season. Table accessories carried out the chosen colors, and highest score for the men was made by Carl L. Mayer of Dallas; Mrs. John B. Henderson scored highest for the women.

Those present for the occasion were Carl L. Mayer of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Coffield of Rockdale, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Robinson and Charles Stall of Cameron.

A NOVELTY PARTY

A novelty party that proved very amusing and interesting was a "Scavanger Party" given by Miss Mary Ellen Cottle Monday evening from eight to ten o'clock complimenting Miss Charlotte Stidham of Houston and Horton Shipley of Waco.

Two cars filled with guests were given the task of finding the greatest number of articles or answering the greatest number of questions. Among the requirements were to find out how many dogs Penn Wolf has, what size jumper Fatty Parnell wears, discover the lady who carries a gold vanity case, a mouse trap, with a number of other requirements. An interesting hunt was made. At 9 o'clock ice cold soda water was served and at ten o'clock the group enjoyed frozen malt.

The car load of guests who made the greatest number of finds, received a box of candy.
